The Strand Rocks Again

Written by David on June, 13 2008

Joey G. from Smashed Productions once again put on a fantastic benefit show for the Strand on Friday June 12, 2008. The line-up was excellent. First on the bill was Amanda and Adam O'Conner. They performed a stylish set. The duo will be back at the Strand in July, and from what we heard tonight it too will be a real treat!

Next up was Faded Daze. The members of this band are well known to Shelby County Audiences. They have played for many years. They played an energetic set that covered many different styles of music.

The headliner of the evening was a return appearance by Travis of the Cosmos. This band opened our very first rock show and returned with another great evening of music.

Their video show looked great as it played behind the band during their set. Thank you to all the bands for donating their talents to help the Strand. These concerts are produced by Smashed Productions and 100% of the revenue is given to the Strand. The Strand is able to survive financially in part because of the generosity of these performers and their loyal fans. From all the Strand family.....Thank You!
