Blown Away Again

Written by David on March, 14 2011

The Strand is home to many fine concerts and programs. We operate with old and older equipment. This past weekend, we noticed the sound wasn't quite right in the balcony. We found the culprit... a blown horn driver in one of our speakers. We patched the problem for this past weekend, but will have the final fix accomplished this coming week.

This is not the first time this has occurred. Fortunately we do not rely upon these older (built in the 1950's) speakers completely. As we go forward we have been purchasing newer and new equipment on a systematic upgrade for our sound. For those of you who recognise this image, you will understand how bad the problem was.

If you would like to help, a work session is scheduled for Saturday. It will require heavy lifting. Contact steve.frazee@strand-theatre-shelbyville.org
