Strand Stained Glass

Written by David on May, 6 2011

When the Strand was being renovated, Tim Conway of Shelbyville, donated a piece stained glass he created. The glass depicts the Greek masks of Comedy and Tragedy. This work of art is very appropriate for our old theatre that has been transformed into a vibrant performing arts center.

Up to now, the glass has been in our lobby without lighting. This past week Strand volunteers installed backlight for this piece of art. As you pass by the lobby you can see the stained glass lit above the ticket booth.
