Strand Theatre Weekly Email: October 14, 2012

Written by David on October, 14 2012

Many people ask about the door in the balcony. This is a large steel door that is bolted shut. We have a sign installed that says "Passage to the Alcazar Ballroom." This week in the Shelbyville High School National Honor Society induction ceremony, the Strand-Alcazar was referenced. Years ago the NHS event was held there. We started looking through our on-line archive of pictures. Our web site (not our Flickr account) is home to over 2000 images in and about the Strand. To our surprise we have never published, or just couldn't find, a picture of the Alcazar. If you look on our site you will find a fun picture taken circa 1940 of the Alcazar Ballroom. If anyone has additional information about the picture we would love to know.

We consider everything we do at the Strand as part of the community. This includes our web site. We are tickled every time we receive an email, see a presentation or find a web site that has included images originally posted on the Strand's site. They are there to be used. Recently we have started posting our images in full resolution just for that purpose. Click the small picture and it will take you to the larger picture. Our web site is www.StrandPAC.org

The little electrons that make this email appear on your screen have been giving the Strand some fits. (Warning, tech talk ahead). We have a very unusual situation. The Strand has a cable modem. Three weeks ago for no apparent reason we can connect everywhere but our own site! This is perplexing. We booted the modem, booted the router, cleared the DNS cache all to no avail. During most performances our volunteers take that time to work on that site or send a myriad of emails from our Strand accounts. With this problem we cannot do that. We have scratched our heads. We think it is a DNS resolution problem, but cannot find where. We checked the subnet masks and white listed our IP on the server. If anyone has a suggestion of where to look, we would appreciate that. Our paranormal people think it is along the lines of the chandelier constantly turning off in the office. Let's not go there.

This coming week we have the Jobs for America's Graduates (JAG) induction ceremony at the Strand. We are proud of these young people in our community. The program is open to all and takes place on Wednesday October 17th. We learned this week that two Strand Fans also were recipients of awards. Congratulations to Linda Sanders and Anne Thurston for the respective outstanding leadership in County government awards. They are working hard to make a difference just as we at the Strand are focused on a better community.

We are working on a date to discuss our renovation plans with everyone. This meeting will give the specific information of the project and the goals we hope to attain. We encourage everyone to come and help us develop the plan. We have several areas we are working on at once. The Annex, the stage, the HVAC and the offices. We are planning to schedule a week where the Strand has not events this summer to get in and do the messy work. We should know the date of the meeting shortly and will let you know the time. We know the place...The Strand!

This coming week we have a variety of events. There is something for everyone! We hope to see you at the theatre soon.

Thank you for your encouragement and support of the Strand. Our mission is simple, and because of you we are able to become a performance destination in the heart of Shelbyville and Shelby County. See you at the Strand!
