Strand Theatre Weekly Email: May 10, 2013

Written by David on May, 10 2013

The Strand has been a busy place. Last week we had the Shelbyville High School Jazz Band perform on Saturday night. This concert gave the student musicians a taste of professional gig. The first set consisted of 16 tunes and the second set they performed another 15. Wow, that was a lot of music. The band sounded great and everyone had a fun time.

The Shelby County Players loaded in this week for their run of Neil Simon's Plaza Suite. The production is this weekend Friday & Saturday nights at 7:30 and a matinee on Sunday at 2:00pm. There is lots of laughter in the Strand for this performance. Please support live theatre in Shelby County and see Plaza Suite!

The Strand is working on all sorts of things. We had a little luck last week. As many of you know our attic is full of stuff. Stuff is a polite term. We had a visit from our friend Ming this week. Ming buys old theatre sound equipment. In other words, he buys junk. He went through our stuff and way in the back of the attic he found a rather benign box. It was about 8 inches square. It was under a pile of "stuff". He took it out and said "how about $300." We have been down this path before. Last time we had a board meeting, a discussion and then decided to sell. This time we had decided before hand to say SOLD. It turns out that Ming bought an old sound head from a projector. According Ming it is really old. To us, it was really junk. We are happy! You can check out what we sold on our web site.

The Strand has been home to many movie projector parts though the years. The offices, attic, basements and projection booth all had pieces and parts. Ming when he was here forwarded our information to a friend. We were contacted by a collector who is making arrangements to look at and hopefully buy our junk...excuse us, our valuable parts.

Next week is a whirlwind. We have Coulston Elementary School presenting SUESSICAL, Jr. on Wednesday. Shelbyville Middle School will hold their Jazz Showcase on Thursday. The Indianapolis Jazz Orchestra will be on Friday. Heywood Banks will present comedy on Saturday night. We finish the week with the Shelby Community Band on Sunday. We love this!

Thank you for your support. Thank you for following our honest efforts to develop and operate our performing arts center. The Strand is for everyone. We hope to see you at the Strand!
